

BORN A GIRL

An essential book that raises awareness of the need to improve the status of girls and women around the world.

Age 13+ | 17 x 24 cm | 176 p | 22 euros | paperback

BORN A GIRL

Alice Dussutour

Born a Girl takes us on a journey from Mexico to Nepal, Kenya, Afghanistan, and France to meet five teen girls. They each tell us their own personal story and bring to light a social issue concerning the place of women and women's rights. Each story is followed by resources pages to provide specific information about all the issues covered: taboo against periods, forced marriages, feminicides... The book also highlights everyday initiatives and activists struggling for more equity and justice.

Naître Fille - Mexique

WHO? WHAT? WHEN? WHERE? WHY? HOW? HOW MUCH?

Today's world can be difficult to understand. This series highlights a variety of topics while empowering teenagers to shape their own opinion.

Age 12+ | 15 x 21 cm | 128 p | 13 euros | paperback

WHO ARE THE LGBT+?

Cécile Benoist
Élodie Perrotin

LGBT+. What's behind these letters? Plural identities, different love orientations, people who just want to be recognized for who they are. In a society where the heterosexual couple is still considered the norm, and where the notion of gender is summed up as male/female, how can we find our place when we feel different? What battles have been fought, and are still being fought, to gain recognition?

This book is a real guide to understanding the colors of the rainbow. Giving space to the reader to form their own opinion, based on facts, and beautifully illustrated by Élodie.

THE BEE'S KINGDOM

APIDOLOGY

Fleur Daugey
Émilie Vanvolsem

A complete immersion in the world of bees (20,000 species counted around the world!): organization, individual roles, cooperation... it's all there! From spring to late summer, you can hear them buzzing from flower to flower. But before being promoted to forager, a bee has many other jobs in her life. There's a lot to do in the hive or swarm! Cleaning, caring for larvae, building cells, ventilating, protecting...

BYE BYE OLD SKIN!

ANIMALS' MOULTING

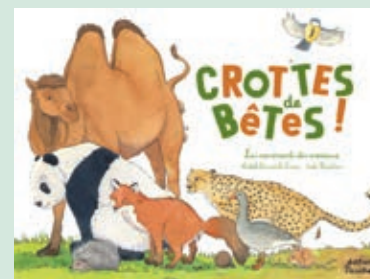

Florence Pinaud
Émilie Vanvolsem

To grow, to look good, or to adapt to the seasons, there are a thousand ways to change skin, hair, scales, or feathers! Many animals change their skin throughout their lives. Snakes feel cramped between their scales, so they swap them for a new skin! Crustaceans, insects, and spiders do the same, while other animals take advantage of the changing seasons to change their fur or feathers... This is called moulting, and everyone has their own tricks and little secrets!

I KNOW WHAT I EAT

CHEESE

Sandrine Dumas Roy
Nicolas Gouny

Before making bread and wine, prehistoric men first made... cheese! After having domesticated sheep and goats, they discovered that the milk preserved in the stomach of the animals became solid. Very practical to transport! This new kind of food was also very nutritious. It is the rennet, a natural substance made by the stomach of ruminants that curdles the milk.
